ATTRACTIONS

Joy Ranch has a barn full of horses but there is more beyond the corral gates than meets the eyes! The 126-acre ranch is nestled between prairie hills on the picturesque shores of Lake Lyle, just outside of Watertown. It's more than a ranch... it is a retreat and conference center, a destination for persons with disabilities as well as a venue for equine events, weddings, family reunions, camping, birthdays and more.

Built as an 1880's prairie town, complete with main street, bunk house, hotel rooms, a historic church and school house, plus the "Thirsty Boot Saloon," the atmosphere of the ranch allows visitors to meet the "old west" head on and take part in activities and planned events such as trail rides, hiking, camping, and kayaking.

Configured to host simultaneous events, small and large gatherings, you'll find multiple conference rooms, a 250-person capacity main dining room, and commercial kitchen on site. An adept and experienced staff is available to help you plan, resource, and execute your unique or specialized event all year-round.

OUR MISSION

Founder, Joy Nelson, started using horses as instruments of healing in 1989. Joy has seen the positive impact horses can have on persons who have been significantly impacted by disease or disability. Joy Ranch, a not-for-profit corporation, provides such individuals an opportunity to have a life-altering experience through the deep connection and bond when interacting with horses.

Arthur Calvin Mellette (23 June 1842- 25 May 1896) had the distinction of serving as the last governor of Dakota Territory and the first governor of the state of South Dakota.

In 1878, Mellette was appointed registrar of the land office in Springfield, Dakota Territory, and when the land office was moved to Watertown in May 1880, he and his family followed. In 1889 President Benjamin Harrison appointed Mellette governor of Dakota Territory, and later that same year, when South Dakota entered the union, he was elected the first governor of South Dakota.

The home Arthur and Maggie built on Prospect Hill is now beautifully restored and furnished, almost precisely as the Mellette family knew it and lived in it. Once inside the door, the visitor has stepped into early day Dakota. During the 1880's and 1890's many receptions and social gatherings graced this beautiful home. Dignitaries, political associates and friends were frequent visitors of the family. We encourage you to enjoy a step back in time with us at the Mellette House.

THE GOSS OPERA HOUSE

100 East Kemp Avenue, Suite A | TheGossOperaHouse.com | (605) 753-0200

In 1889, a resilient Charles Goss built the Goss Opera House after fire destroyed the original building. Box seats and a beautiful serpentine balcony, still intact today, overlooked a magnificent stage with superb acoustics. Audiences filled seats for music and theater productions as well as lavish events like the Merchant's Ball.

The vibrant space slowly went dark after the Depression, and by the late 1950s, it became a largely forgotten part of Watertown's history. Nearly 70-years after going dark, a small group of friends rallied thousands to help preserve the history of the Goss Opera House and bring life back to the space.

Every inch of the historic building was restored in an extensive $5MM renovation project, ensuring future generations their own memories at the Goss. The Friends of the Goss Opera House, the non-profit that manages the care of this landmark is committed to preserving this magnificent building for all to enjoy.

Because of the vision of Charles Goss and the tenacity of our community, the Goss Opera House remains the heart of Downtown Watertown. You're invited to make your own memories at the Goss.

WATERTOWN Artwalk 2022

Since May of 2015, people of all ages have been enjoying the sculptures placed throughout Downtown Watertown, LATC, and at the Redlin Art Center. The Artwalk project, prompted by the H2O-20 community visioning process strives to maintain excellence as well as to grow. In 2017 a sculpture was placed at Lake Area Technical College and in 2021 a sculpture will be placed at Jenkins Living Center. The art is changed yearly and most sculptures are for sale.

Watertown Artwalk will be placing 15 new sculptures this spring around the downtown streets and the three offsite locations. This year, we are excited to feature a sculpture, I Lift My Eyes to the Hills, from local artist Doris Symens Armstrong. Other sculptures for the 2021-22 season include: Reeds by Bobbie Carlyle, Paper Boy, by Lee Leunig & Sherri Treeby; Food Chain by Jerry Nelson and Ralph Moose by Martha Pettigrew.

Through the support of the Watertown Area Community Foundation, City of Watertown, Joy Nelson, Gray Construction, Cashway Lumber Inc., Concrete Dakota Redi-Mix, Sioux Falls SculptureWalk, SD Arts Council, sculpture sponsors and Friends of Artwalk, the effort continues to offer a unique art experience for our community and visitors.

“The community as a whole has embraced this project and many look forward to viewing the new art every year. We are appreciative of the City of Watertown for including Watertown Artwalk in its budget to help in financing the project;” said Artwalk President Joy Nelson. LATC students have helped with the placement of the sculptures for a number of years. This partnership, which promotes volunteering as well as arts and culture, has been very successful.

MOTHER OF GOD MONESTARY

The Sisters of Mother of God Monastery are excited to announce Harmony Hill Watertown, our Legacy Project. It is our hope that this one-of-a-kind intergenerational campus will be a place where all are welcome to enjoy the expansive parks, gardens, and walking and biking trails on the 480+ acre campus. Not only is there over 80 acres of green space, there's over 180 acres of residential space where you'll surely find a place to call home in the varied resident opportunities found in apartments, condominiums, twin-homes, and single family residences.

Additionally, Harmony Hill will be home to some very distinctive attractions found nowhere else in Watertown or even the state of South Dakota. The "Hill" will be home to the Challenger Learning Center of South Dakota, a hands on STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, & Math) NASA experience. Adjacent to the Challenger, we plan to build an outdoor classroom that focuses on wildlife conservation and the activities of outdoor life that bring families together and tourists to visit, fish, hunt, and camp in the great outdoors of South Dakota.

A LASTING LEGACY

Americana Artist Terry Redlin – A Look Back

By Steve Weisman, Free-Lance Writer

In the mid-80s, Charles Redlin began pressuring his dad to save his original oils. Charles had a dream of his own and as Terry, with a grin, said, “Chuck had to fight us every step of the way.” Charles wanted to build an art center as a tribute to the works of his father.

“I wanted to do something really big,” says Charles. He spent years drawing and designing until by May of 1992, he built a model of what would become the present-day Redlin Art Center.

However, the original plan was to build it just off of 494 in the Twin Cities. With Terry and Helene wanting to move back to Watertown, Charles reconsidered and went to the city of Watertown with the idea. "They provided the land and have been a wonderful partner in this venture."

In retrospect, the move was perfect. "It's right off of I-29 and is a focal point here in Watertown," adds Charles.

Both Terry and Charles wanted the Center to be a gift back to the city of Watertown and the state of South Dakota for the support and scholarship that helped Terry attend art school.

The Redlin Art Center opened June 6, 1997 and has welcomed over 3 million guests. As a 501(c)3 non-profit foundation, the Redlin Art Center relies on gift shop revenue to fund its daily operation. It was the Redlin family's desire to keep admission free.

Lake Area Technical College has been recognized as the number one, two-year college in the nation by the Aspen Institute Community College Excellence program. A “Great College to Work For,” a “Military Friendly School,” the President’s “Community Service Honor” – not to mention 30 programs, expansion projects and record student numbers for the past 18 years, Lake Area Technical Institute is busting at the seams with good news and growth!

Lake Area Technical College’s 2015 Commencement Address was only the 93rd in US history given by a sitting President. The Honorable President Barack Obama noted, “...there are few community colleges that are as important as Lake Area Tech. This school is leading the way. Compared with other community colleges, the graduation rate at Lake Area is more than three times the national average. Three times. Within six months, 99 percent of those graduates are either employed or continuing their education. The average Lake Area graduate who enters the workforce earns nearly 50 percent more than other new hires in this region.”

The announcement of numbers for 2020-2021 enrollment has only added to the general air of success. Over 2,600 students now call Lake Area Tech home.

Attracted to the school’s national ranking, diverse training choices and 99% percent graduate placement rate, incoming students gather in a centralized state-of-the-art Student Center. They can also take part in a growing number of student-driven activities like intramural sports, themed parties, clubs and organizations, Esports, Drone Raising League, Trap & Skeet, On-Campus events, Campus Crusades, and more!

Keeping things happening is a Lake Area Tech mantra. With a close eye on industry need and student opportunities, the school has created programs and program options that are high demand. See the Lake Area Tech website for more info on individual programs and how to apply.

Most respected technical institute in region

Lake Area Technical College is one of the best and most respected technical colleges in the region. Located in northeast Watertown, the campus lies on 40 acres of land, which is home to nine buildings that are completely occupied with the latest technology.

In 1965, the founding fathers of technical education in South Dakota voted unanimously to organize the first technical school in Watertown, with others to follow in Mitchell, Sioux Falls and Rapid City. Beginning with one program of study and 16 students, Lake Area Tech has come a long way in a relatively short amount of time. Today, over 2,600 full-time and part-time students attend classes in 31 programs of study. With a student teacher ratio of 16:1, students receive personal attention from experienced instructors.

Students who attend Lake Area Tech earn a quality education, as proven by receiving the high-ranking accreditation by The Higher Learning Commission. Many of the programs also have their own accreditation status. Over the previous years, Lake Area Tech has also received numerous state and national honors and has been recognized as a leader in their industry, including the 2017 Aspen Award.

Lake Area Tech understands that time and money are valuable. At Lake Area Tech, students can receive a degree or diploma in 9-20 months. The education students receive, by comparison to other post-high institutions, is affordable and there is no out-of-state tuition. Students who have previous college or high school classes may be given credit for these courses allowing students more time for their studies and the prospect of saving money on tuition.

Whatever the field of study, students will gain practical hands-on knowledge that will give them the competitive edge and “know-how” when they enter the job market. Employers locally, regionally and nationally, rely on Lake Area Tech to supply them with an individual who understands the technology and who can immediately go to work with their business without having to invest in additional training time.

Although Lake Area Tech has only been in existence since 1965, its presence has been made loud and clear around the region. Alumni, current students, parents, and employers recognize the quality of craftsmanship. Lake Area Tech is seeing the rewards of first-generation students who are sending their children its way to benefit from an education that has paid off so well for them. And employers are encouraging career seekers to get their training at Lake Area Tech. The Lake Area Tech legacy continues to grow as outstanding alumni are returning to teach, serve on advisory boards, become involved with the Alumni Association and Foundation, and are employed as staff and administrators.

If interested in touring Lake Area Technical College, contact the college by calling 1-800-657-4344 or 605-882-LATI. Tours are given Monday-Friday from 8:00 AM-5:00 PM. If interested in additional information about Lake Area Tech, visit our website at lakeareatech.edu.
